AGRICULTURE

The foundation of the Kuyucak economy is based on agriculture, animal husbandry and forest products. Agricultural areas are either industrial plants or agriculture is done to take two and three products. Modern methods are applied in agriculture. Irrigation, fertilization, spraying and the latest methods of agriculture are applied. The appearance of the Mediterranean climate has brought a variety of agricultural products in the region. Cotton and other agricultural products are grown at the bottom of the plain while fruit (citrus, plum, apricot) and figs and olives are grown on the slopes of the pond cone. When it rises a little higher, it is tobacco and cheekbyon from plants in the industry with products such as summer vegetables, tomatoes, beans, Cubans, potatoes. Büyük Menderes is the life vessel of the kuyucak plain. The fertile plain is irrigated with Menderes' waters. Irrigation channel was opened on the North and south coast to irrigate the plain. There are also small streams around kuyucak. It is the Kestel stream, Horsunlu stream, Basil stream, Kayran stream, wine stream, Girin stream, Kuyucak stream and Gencelli stream that flows through the büyük Menderes River in the Winter. Menderes plain, which is the base Land of the district of kuyucak, is very suitable for growing cotton. Cotton is one of the main products of the subtropical climate.

Cotton is hot and dry during the summer season, in the time of growing rainfall or rainfall instead of irrigated base lands grow. Citrus fruits grow on a narrower microclimate in terms of temperature. It is more sensitive to temperature. Citrus fruits are different in their susceptibility to climate. For this reason, more orange and tangerine are grown in the region. Kuyucak County is a center that is more of a nursemaid of these species as it grows turuncgiller.
